

one day AT techtv ...

Carmine: We're back and it's 12:30 on the West Coast, time to check in with Matt Markovich in Seattle. Matt, I understand there's something going on there?

Matt: Thank you Carmine, checking my copy here. There's reports that there is some sort of disturbance at the Microsoft Tower. We're not exactly sure what's going on, but it can't be good.

Carmine: Do you think the disturbance had anything to do with the explosion Patrick Norton's demonstration of the AMD chip that we covered earlier?

Matt: Norton was in Seattle?

Carmine: Yes...

Matt:... and he was installing an AMD chip?

Carmine: That's right, we had footage of it earlier.

Matt: Dear god.

Carmine: Here, let's go to the file footage.

::snap:: ::crackle:: ::pop::

Patrick: Ooops.

Matt: That explains the drop in these employment figures.

Carmine: Matt, you sound concerned.

Matt: It's freaking Patrick Norton, armed with an AMD chip and a system in the town that I'm in! OF COURSE I'M CONCERNED! DO YOU KNOW WHAT SORT OF CHAOS PATRICK AND HIS AMD FINGERS CAN DO TO A CITY THE SIZE OF SEATTLE?

Carmine: Matt, Leo is there too. Allegedly as a 100 foot tall monster of some sort.

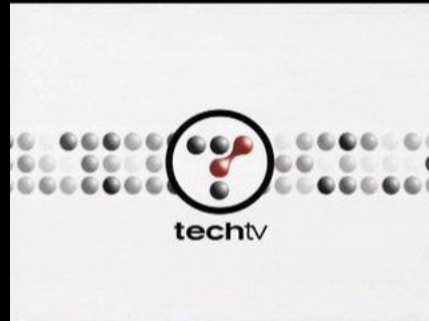

Matt: LEO IS HERE TOO?!?!?

Carmine: Matt, hold your ground. Remember your journalistic duties. We need you there to report on the situation.

Matt: Freak that, Carmine, I'm out of here! What's that? Strange ripples on the surface of my coffee cup. This can't be good. Dear god, NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!

::Transmission Lost. Resequencing.::