

one day AT techru ...

Bill Gates: Okay. The country is on fire and good is fighting evil in the streets of Cincinnati. Good seems to have a bigger market share... hmm.

Bill Gates: Paul Allen, oh, Paul Allen, are you still here?
Paul Allen: Yes sir, Mr. Gates, just cleaning out my desk, sir.

Bill Gates: Paul, you can stop that for now. I want you to take some notes. I think we're going to expand into a new market.
Paul Allen: What market is that?

Bill Gates: Pure Evil.

Paul Allen: You mean Microsoft Bob type evil, sir?
Bill Gates: No, no, I mean truly over the top evil. Like Barbara Bush and Nancy Reagan.

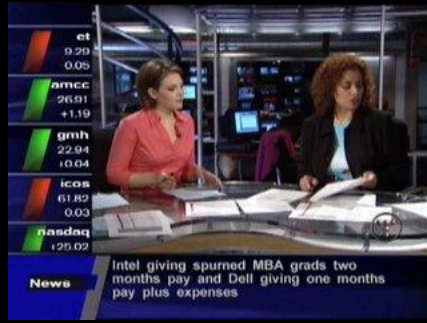

Paul Allen:... and Hillary Clinton, sir?
Bill Gates: Nothing is that evil, Paul.

Bill Gates: Now for evil to win, Paul, we need to demoralize the forces of good to the point that they can't continue. Let's start with those poor fools at your TechTV channel. I want you to hit them hard and put fear into their very souls.

Paul Allen: An office memo, sir?
 Bill Gates: Indeed. Make it so.

Michaela: Erica, look at this office memo. Mr. Allen wants us to stay out of the war between good and evil. He's ordering us to stay at our desks and to await orders from "the dark command task force." I wonder if that's where they sent Scott Herriott...

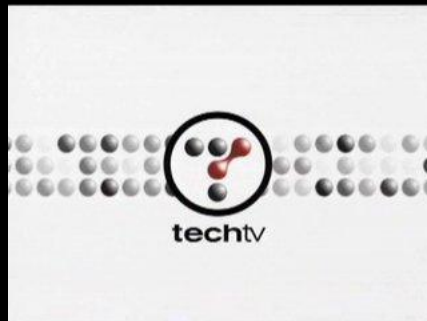

Erica:.. (Evil? They want us to ignore Evil? I can't stand for that! You can shove this job...)

Michaela: Erica, why are you spinning around like that...?

Erica: Evildoers beware, Wonder Erica is back!

To Be continued... Really!