Michaela: We're back with Jim Louderback's review of a new ebook player ...

Jim: Greetings Michaela, before we start this pitiful review, I have an announcement.

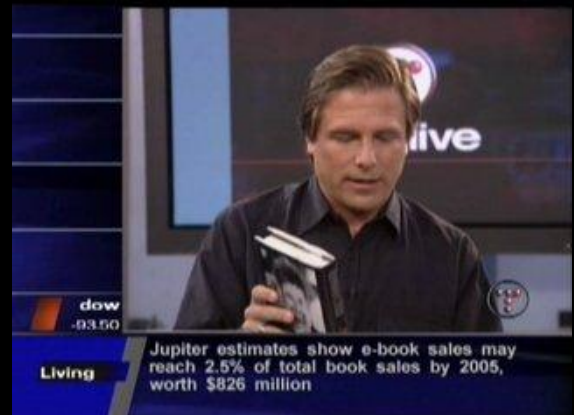

Michaela: What's that, Jim?

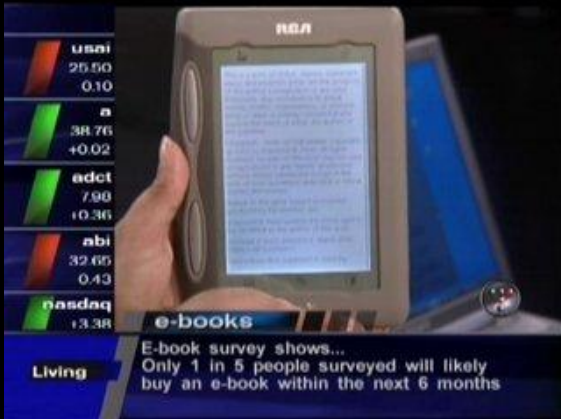

Jim: From now on you should all refer to me as Zoltan the Magician. I am a 12th level magic user from the city of Waterdeep.

Michaela: Right. Zoltan. So Zoltan, do you have a product to show us?

Zoltan the Magician: Yes, you lowly temptress, I am reviewing the banana jr. ebook 2001. The newest in the line of ebooks from the great wizards at RCA.

Zoltan the Magician: As you can see the screen magic used by the great wizards provides an adequate display for reading in even the deepest dungeons of slorht.

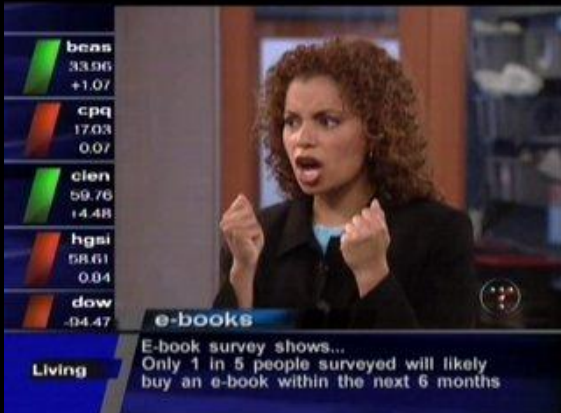

Michaela: So, Zoltan, you're saying that this ebook is powered by magic?

Zoltan the Magician: Ha! Temptress! That is not the only secret of the book! It also casts spells such as the memorizing screech of Queen!

::Zap:: ::Pow:: ::Crash::

Michaela: Can you show us an example of the spells in action?

Michaela: I see a little silhouetto of a man!*

Steve & Kristen: Scaramouche, scaramouche will you do the Fandango!

Pat & Leo: Thunderbolt and lightning-very very frightening me!

Anne: Galileo, Galileo! Galileo Galileo! Galileo figaro-Magnifico!

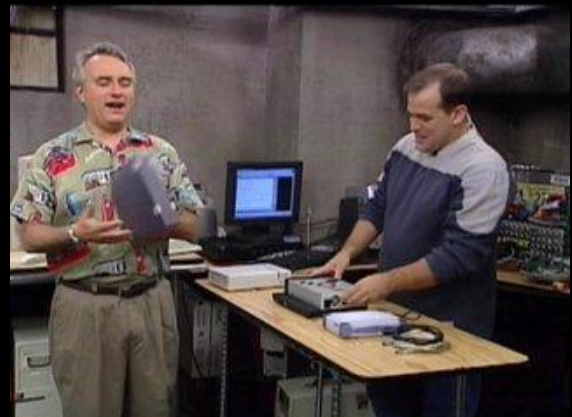

Michaela: But I'm just a poor boy and nobody loves me!

Steve & Kristen: He's just a poor boy from a poor family! Spare him his life from this monstrosity!

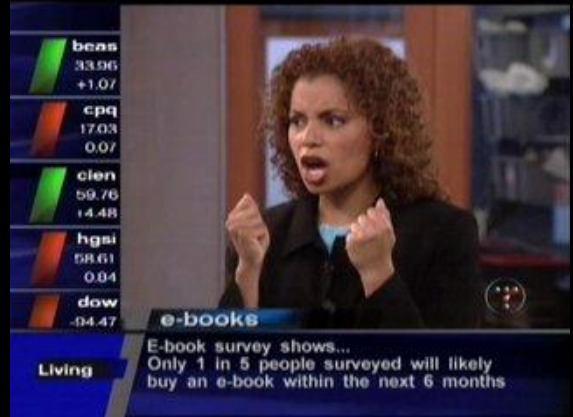

Michaela: Easy come easy go, will you let me go?

Pat & Leo: Bismillah! No, we will not let you go-let him go!

Anne: Bismillah! We will not let you go-let him go!

Everyone: Will not let you go!
Michaela: Let me go?

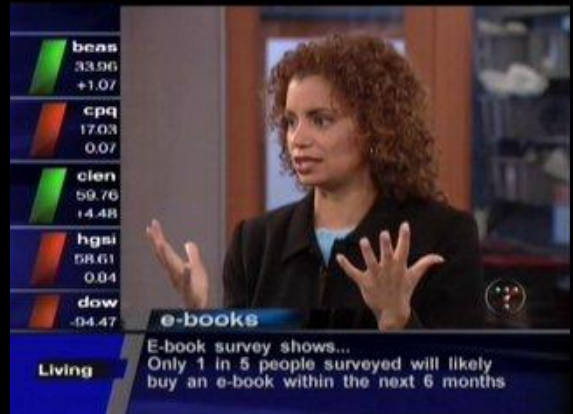

Steve & Kristen: Will not let you go!
Michaela: Let me go!
Steve & Kristen: Will not let you go!
Michaela: Let me go!

Pat & Leo: No, no, no, no, no, no, no!

Michaela: Mama mia, mama mia, mama mia

Michaela: Beelzebub has a devil put aside for me, for me, for me!
