

those were the days AT TechTV ...

Victoria: ... and in other news, TechTV's own Robyn "Huggiebear" Heuseveldt continues her rampage on the west coast.

LeoWare Spycam Locker View 1

Victoria: Ms. Heuseveldt, seen here in a recent TechTV spy camera picture ...

Victoria: ... was apparently enraged by offhand comments made by this man, Steve Abrams; known Canadian and Barry Manilow enthusiast.

Victoria: Mr. Abrams was among those injured when the enraged TechTV worker took three steps, screamed "01, 01, 000 0010" and flew out of the building. Her subsequent rampage has left several major cities in flames, including TechTV's home city of San Francisco.

Victoria: Turning to news on the home front, viewers of TechTV's "The Screen Savers" were shocked and, dare I say, titillated by a strange incident involving TechTV co-hosts tonight. Let's go to the tape.

Leo: Why lookie here, Ladies and Gentlemen, we're joined by our own Locker-Gnome. Hey Gnomie, come on over and say hi to the nice people at home.

The Gnome: Hi Leo! ::whisper whisper whisper::

Leo: Speak up, Gnomie they can't hear you.

The Gnome: Are you sure? Maybe I should say it off the air.

Leo: It's okay, anything you have to say to me you can say to me in front of our viewers ...

The Gnome: Okay ... but ... oh hell ...

The Gnome: Here goes -- Leo, I love your shirts. I love your show. I can't stop dreaming of them. I want to be you, err just like you when I grow up, and being here close to you like this I feel like we should be ...

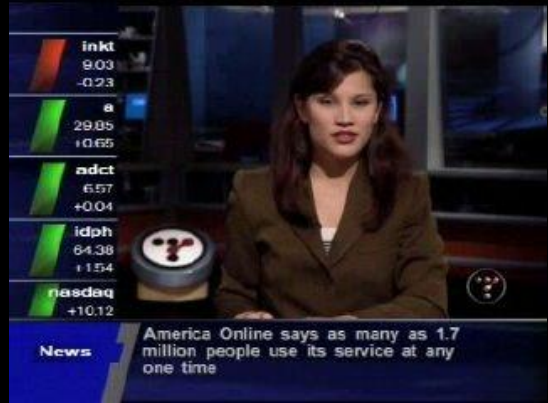

Leo: Security!

The Gnome: ... co-hosts! Yes, yes, dump that Patrick Norton person and let's be together as co-hosts forever. You and me, a team, like Nash and Bridges, Chuck and Di, or even Hall and Oates. Leo, you must be mine!

Leo: Riiiiiiight. Security! No security? Oh god.

The Gnome: BTW, I'm wearing my autographed Laporte Brand Underoos ...

Victoria: Shocking.

Victoria: In other news, viewers were relieved that a long time dangling plot thread has been resolved as ...

Victoria: ... Extended Play co-host Adam Sessler ...

Victoria: ... has finally entered puberty. As with anything around here, this happened on air when he realized that co-host ...

Victoria: ... Kate Botello ...

Victoria: ... is female. While this reporter could see how someone could make that mistake, viewers were relieved that this longtime plotline has come to an end.

Victoria: Speaking of plots, this reporter is about to make news of her own as she's discovered a greater plot at work around here.

Victoria: This reporter has discovered that TechTV's upper management has recently purchased the "Genericanation 2001" device.

Victoria: The Genericanation 2001 device was developed by the Microsoft corporation in order to deal with tricky HR department issues.

Victoria: When aimed at a potentially disruptive or outspoken employee, the device uses a modified "laser" beam in order to simultaneously wipe the employee from the space/time continuum while replacing them with a hand picked employee who is more in line with management's point of view.

Victoria: Since the space/time continuum is changed by the device, everyone simply forgets that the employee ever existed, thus ending any extended HR issues. What TechTV's management will do with this device remains to be seen. However, our hopes are high that they'll act responsibly when using the device.

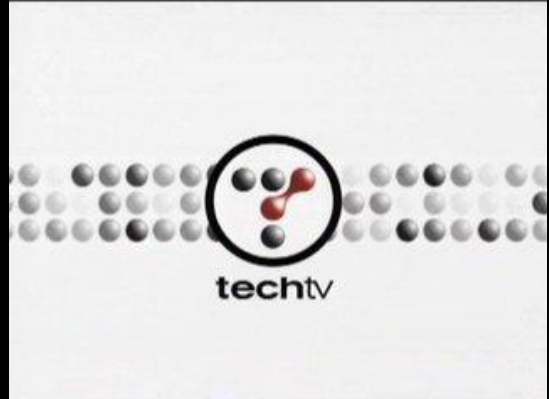

Victoria: With that, I'm Vict --

::BZZZZZZEE::

Gary: ... Gary Nurenberg, and this has been TechTV news. Thank you and goodnight!

Stay Tuned ...