$50 for a one-year subscription.

Erica: The monitor from the Screen Savers' studio just went dead.
Michaela: Is Leo changing his shirt again in front of the audience? I do wish that boy would learn to use a dressing room.

Erica: We'll know in a second.
Michaela: How?
Erica: The screams.
Michaela: Screams of joy? From Leo changing his shirt?
Erica: No.

Erica: Panic.
Michaela: Panic?
Erica: Have you ever SEEN Leo without his shift on?
Michaela: Good point.

Erica: Listen ... listen ... wait for it ...
Micheala: Yup, there it is. He must have changed his pants as well.
Erica: I don't hear any laughter.
Michaela: I hear sirens. That's new.

Erica: They're not the normal sirens either. So it wasn't another fire. Damn that Patrick Norton.
 Michaela: I was with you from 9 to 11 this morning.
 Erica: What?
 Michaela: Just cover for me in case it was Robert Heron!

Erica: Robert Heron? Ooooooh.
 Micheala: Hey, like they say, a girl has needs. A girl has wants.
 Erica: So you don't want to take another decency quiz?
 Michaela: Have you ever taken one?
 Erica: No. What are they like?

Michaela: Imagine 2000 multiple choice questions ...
 Erica: Like on the SATS?
 Michaela: Worse.
 Erica: Worse than the SATS? How?
 Michaela: They're all questions about ROBERT.

Erica: Robert? But how can you find 2000 things about Robert? There's nothing to him! Just glasses, hair, and well, he's more generic than one of those red shirts on the first season of Star Trek.
 Micheala: Say what?

Erica: You know, the generic guys who always got eaten by the monster of the week ...
 Micheala: Girl, you need to get out more.

Michaela: That's just sad.
 Erica: Tell me about it. Anyway, the quizzes?

Erica: Such is the curse of being "Wonder" Erica.

Michaela: Well the first 200 questions were your thoughts on Robert Heron.

Erica: That took you 20 minutes?
Michaela: Half an hour. It was a six hour session.
Erica: Six hours? Oh dear god.
Michaela: It gets worse. They grade you as you go along.

Erica: Say what?
Michaela: And if you mark anything that indicates that you may have an interest in him ...
Erica: What do they do?
Michaela: The test is stopped and you have to spend a weekend with him.

Erica: A weekend? Oh lord.
Michaela: Want to know why we haven't seen Cat around on the weekends recently?
Erica: You mean ...
Michaela: Matched 29 of his favorite foods, games, and movies. We're not going to be seeing her for a LONG time.

Erica: Good golly. Good thing I'm a good girl.
Michaela: Miss thang is so innocent. Huh?
Erica: Well, it's hard being a super hero.
Michaela: Tell me, why is that super hero outfit of yours so skimpy then?
Erica: Err. Umm. Uhh ...

Michaela: Ladies and Gentlemen, we have a

Michaela: You can say that again.

BAD girl.
 Erica: STOOOOP! He might hear!
 Michaela: Oh NOW you're afraid of taking a quiz are you?
 Erica: EVERY girl should be afraid of that.

Erica: Sirens are dying down.
 Michaela: Well that was fast for a fire. Wonder what it was.
 Erica: Probably just another scandal. There go the audience. Shoot, looks like we'll be starting early.

Floor Manager: Girls we're on in 30 seconds.
 Michaela: Damn that Leo, his "incidents" always result in more work for us.
 Erica: Yah, someone should do something about him.
 Floor Manager: You're on in 5 ... 4 ... 3 ...

Michaela: Good evening, I'm Michaela Pereira ...
 Erica: ... and I'm Erica Hill ...
 Michaela: ... and this is TechLive.

Michaela: Our top story tonight concerns the kidnapping of TechTV's own Leo Laporte from the Screen Savers' studios ...?
