

RELIVING THOSE DAYS AT TECHTV ...

During the Break ...

Michaela: Look at him go. You would have thought Carmine hit the lottery.

Erica: Well, compared to staying here ...
 Michaela: Good point.
 Erica: More face time for us, I guess.
 Michaela: That's true. There are so many of anchors here at TechLive that it's a prized commodity. So ...?

Erica: What?
 Michaela: Do you believe Leo's story about killer robots and Donald Trump taking over the world?
 Erica: Did I believe his story that his hair is real and not out of a can?
 Michaela: Outch. Harsh.

Erica: Well, fool me once, shame on you, fool me twice ...
 Micheala: ... and the pictures get plastered all over Leoville for his "loyal fans" to make fun of.
 Erica: Exactly. I don't trust him any Michaela: Wow. That's not very far at all.

 Erica: The way he's eating and telling stories, it's less and less each day.
 Michaela: So I wonder what tall tale he's telling now ...

further than I can throw him.

Leo: So, Jessica, when we date in two years and I dump you for someone better, I don't want you to take it too hard. You'll find life in the convent to be fulfilling. In the meantime, work on your typing. You're going to need a trade skill.
Jessica: Wowzers! Futuriffic!
Martin: Hey Leo, can I talk to you?

Martin: This future stuff, you're not pulling our legs, right?
Leo: That's right.
Martin: It's not like the time you saw Megan's underpants because you convinced the staff that "Wear Your Undies on the Outside day" would be good for team morale ...

Megan: I'll cut you for that, Laporte!
I'll cut you!

Martin: Wow, I hope the future improves

her attitude ...
Leo: You don't want to know.
Martin: Oh boy. So anyway, I had a question. Since I'm an upwardly-mobile guy and all ...

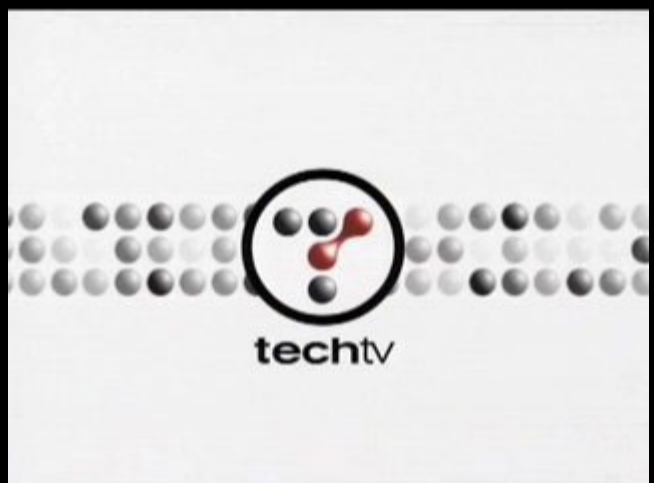

Martin: ... in the future, is there any chance of me getting my own show?
Leo: None. None at all.
Martin: Ratfarts.

George W.: Republicans get special powers in the future? Did I hear that right?
Laura Bush: Yes, dear.
George W.: Like super-powers from the comic strips?
Laura Bush: I guess, dear.

George W.: Ashcroft, Ashcroft! Get this Laporte feller on the phone right quick!

Super Entertaining? Nah. Just Mildly.