

RELIVING THOSE DAYS AT TECHTV ...

Leo: So it's down to this, the grande finale of my search for an apprentice.

Leo: I must tell you, I've seen and fired many many people to get to this point and you alone survived. This is both a shock to me and a delightful surprise.

Leo: You see, this great adventure in business is just starting but I think you and I both know that a second adventure started right after my divorce was finalized.

Leo: Yes, that's right. I went looking for an Apprentice and not only did I find the best person possible for the job, I may have found the love of my life right here in TechTV Chat. I love it, just love it!

Leo: This is a first for live television. I mean, a man declaring his love for a coworker isn't new, but a man of my stature, who came from the future to save the past, has never done this on live television before. I'm giddy here.

Leo: So will you, Robyn "Huggie Bear" Heuseveldt, the girl of my dreams and the finest choice to share my future, take my final rose, clutch it to your heart and accept my proposal that we merge our assets in holy --
 Voice: Excuse me, Mr. Laporte!

Robyn: 1111!!!

The Gopher: I'm sorry to interrupt, but I must tell you some urgent news!

Leo: A talking Gopher? Can this strip get any stranger?

The Gopher: Strip? I won't ask. Sir! Sir! It's Bill Gates and Paul Allen!

Leo: What?

The Gopher: They've been using a flaw in the TechTV netcam network in order to spy on you! Right now they're about to hatch a plan from one of your own nerd containment camps! If we leave now we can catch them red handed!

Leo: Prepare my car, oh talking rodent!
 The Gopher: Yes, sir!
 Leo: By the way, Robyn?
 Robyn: 1011?
 Leo: Netcams were your area of expertise.
 YOU'RE FIRED!

Robyn: 111111 111 1110111 1111101111!

Well That Was Unexpected! Stay Tuned!